Board member blasts colleagues

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The Granite City Board of Education has new leadership, albeit from an old familiar source. Monroe Worthen, who was re-elected last week to a four-year term on the school board after having previously served for 32 consecutive years, was selected as board president Tuesday night when the board reorganized. He also has served as president on past occasions. Newcomer Walter Whitaker was selected

Worthen to head school board as vice president. Jim Noeth was elected as secretary and Pete Novacich was selected to be school treasurer. All of the officers were elected by acclamation, although the vote to elect Worthen as president by acclamation was 4-3. While newcomer Eldin Rea wanted to nominate member Jeff Parker for president, the motion was out of order because it came after Novacich's motion to close nominations and elect Worthen by acclamation. Novacich, Noeth, Worthen and Whitaker voted to elect Worthen by acclamation. Board members Parker, Rea and Carolyn Nemeth voted against. All of the officers' terms will last one year. In addition to the choosing of officers, four board members — incumbents Worthen and Novacich and newcomers Whitaker and Rea — were sworn into office. Outgoing board President Mark Eavenson, who failed in his re-election bid Nov. 2, did not attend the meeting. Debbie Holt-Wilkerson presided over the meeting in Eavenson's absence. Wilkerson, who also lost her re-election bid, was bitter about leaving and let the board know it. (See BOARD, Page 10A)

Escapee is captured

20-year-old caught running naked

A 20-year-old Granite City man facing felony drug charges escaped from police Monday for one last visit with his girlfriend because he realized he would not see her again for some time, police say. Jason V. Branch, of the 2800 block of East 24th Street, escaped from the Granite City police station, where he was being held on a felony drug possession warrant. He was arrested again a short time later, running naked from his girlfriend's apartment in the 1900 block of Grand Avenue, where the couple had been taking a shower. "He realized that he was going to jail for awhile and I guess he just wanted one last fling before he left," a shift commander at the police station said Monday afternoon after Branch was arrested a second time. Branch had been arrested at the Wayside Tavern at 1:02 p.m. Saturday on charges of domestic battery and resisting a peace officer and on a felony warrant charging him with unlawful possession of a controlled substance. According to a police report, Branch had pulled his girlfriend's hair and bit her on the face earlier in the day. He resisted an officer when arrested, the report states. But as police were preparing to take Branch to court Monday, he escaped from the police station and fled to the (See ESCAPEE, Page 10A)

Traffic woes

Sewer break adds to street problems

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Motorists trying to get to the east side of Granite City from the central shopping strip of the city — or vice versa — may find the going difficult. Traffic has been detoured at two of the four major east-west routes in the city — on Pontoon Road just east of Nameoki Road and on Johnson Road, also near its intersection with Nameoki. The Pontoon Road obstacle has been in place for several months now. That road is closed to all but local traffic from Nameoki to Wabash Avenue in order to complete a road improvement project that includes new curbs and gutters and widening the traffic lanes. The project is scheduled for completion in the summer of 1994. But just as motorists were beginning to learn to live with a detour that took eastbound or westbound traffic on Pontoon to Johnson Road, a sanitary sewer line failure this week under Johnson Road near its intersection with Nameoki has necessitated yet another detour. Joe Juneau of the Juneau engineering firm said the break under Johnson Road appears to be in the lateral line which runs from the USA Buffet restaurant, in the 1500 block, to the sewer main. He said the City Council has appropriated $66,000 to repair the failed line. Extensive dewatering has been performed to access the sewer break, Juneau said. He said the failure brings to about 26 the number of sewer breaks in the city. Juneau said that progress on the Pontoon Road project is coming along well. The other two major east-west roads in the city are St. Clair Avenue and East 23rd Street.

Workers from Layne Western of Fenton, Mo., guide special well-pack gravel into a well drilled into Johnson Road to relieve groundwater pressure to allow a broken sewer line to be repaired.

Body discovered in ditch

By Shay Wessol
Staff writer

The Madison County Sheriff's Department is investigating a murder mystery after the body of an unidentified female was found Tuesday night in a roadside ditch outside of Pontoon Beach. Capt. Bob Hertz, chief detective for the sheriff's department, said Wednesday night that the body had positively been identified as a Granite City woman. However, Hertz declined to reveal the identity. Hertz said the woman's identity was determined by matching her fingerprints to police records. The woman apparently died from severe injuries to her head, Madison County Sheriff Bob Hertz said earlier Wednesday. An autopsy was scheduled for (See BODY, Page 10A)

Pump stations being repaired

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Some experts at the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers are warning that this region can expect heavy Mississippi River flooding again in the spring, but Metro East Sanitary District President Walter "Shang" Greathouse is taking that information with a grain of salt. "One of those Corps guys that had told the newspapers that was explaining it today," Greathouse said Monday. "He was saying traditionally that's what happens after a summer flood — it floods the next spring. But the truth is nobody ever knows what's actually going to happen. So we're going ahead and doing what we have to do." What the MESD is doing, Greathouse said, is continuing its $30 million rehabilitation program under the supervision of the Corps of Engineers. Greathouse said he spent five hours with Corps representatives Monday in a "partnership meeting" going over planned work. "I'm getting ready to write them another check for $1.2 million," Greathouse said. "We're working on the Madison, Venice and North pump stations right now." "When the (Mississippi) River gets down to seven feet, we'll start on three or four more pump stations." Also scheduled for this winter is the cleaning and excavation of all the district's drainage ditches and diversionary canals — about $5 million in work. "I don't feel any urgency about getting it done (See PUMPS, Page 10A)

GCC safety head leads workshops

Linda Doerge, the director of public safety at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, recently scored an A at the National Crime Prevention Institute's crime prevention training session at the University of Louisville.

Law enforcement officers from all over the country enrolled in this three-week training session. For law enforcement officials, attending the National Crime Prevention Institute is comparable to attending the FBI Academy, said Dr. Harold Johnson, vice provost of the Granite City Campus.

Doerge did such an outstanding job in crime prevention and safety training that the institute asked her to speak at national crime prevention workshops four times a year.

Her participation in the training session was made possible by a Marsh Company Award from the Belleville Area College Foundation.

At BAC, Doerge is using the knowledge she picked up at the training sessions to lead workshops on crime prevention for students, staff and faculty.

She will lead workshops at each BAC campus on preventing sexual assault.

The workshops will be held at 10 a.m. Nov. 15 and 6:30 p.m. Nov. 16 at the Belleville Campus. At the Red Bud Campus, workshops will be held at noon and 7 p.m., Nov. 17. At the Granite City Campus, workshops will take place at 7 p.m. Nov. 18 and 10 a.m. Nov. 19.

Also, she will lead another workshop for senior citizens on how to spot a con, personal safety for public-contact personnel, personal safety at work, and violence in the workplace.

Doerge said there are dozens of simple little things that every person can do to help safeguard against crime in the workplace.

For example, don't bring a lot of money or expensive items to work that may be attractive to thieves; always park in a lighted area; don't get on an elevator or go into a stairwell with anyone who makes you feel uncomfortable; and do not agitate a rude or angry person because it may provoke violence.

Doerge learned to conduct workshops on a variety of topics ranging from weapons in the school and physical security to employee theft and crimes against senior citizens.

Also, she learned how to obtain crime prevention information and assemble her own seminars on crime prevention.

Linda Doerge

"This way, I can put together a workshop that is tailor-made for the needs of our students and staff," Doerge said.

For more information about crime prevention workshops, persons may call Doerge at 931-0600, or toll-free in Illinois at 1-800-BAC-5131, extension 441.

Henkhaus to enter treasurer's race

Former Madison County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus wants his old job back.

Henkhaus, a Bethalto Democrat, has taken out petitions to run for county treasurer in the March primary, making him the third Democrat to join the race.

The other two are County Board member Alan Dunstan and retired banking executive James Foley of Granite City.

Henkhaus was first elected treasurer in 1978 but lost a re-election bid three years ago to Collinsville Republican John Shinkus amid charges that Henkhaus attempted to use his political connections to get criminal charges against two of his children dropped.

During that campaign, Hen-haus' sons, Michael II and Matthew, were sentenced to probation for their involvement in the stabbing and beating of a man outside a Bethalto convenience store.

Protesters, led by the stabbing victim's mother, called on Henkhaus to fire his son Michael II, who was working in the treasurer's office at the time.

Michael Henkhaus II later resigned.

Four months later, Henkhaus lost the election.

"I've done some polling and those questions that were raised back then were asked and I still came out the front-runner," Henkhaus said Monday.

"It looks good all around," he added.

Father, son guilty on U.S. charges

A father-son accounting team from Alton convicted of bilking clients of $1.7 million may face additional prison time after pleading guilty to federal charges.

Howard Bozovich, 65, and his son John Bozovich, 43, pleaded guilty this week in U.S. District Court in Springfield to charges of mail fraud.

Each faces an additional five-year prison term for scheming an Alton couple out of more than $120,000 in insurance proceeds. Both men have agreed to pay court-ordered restitution when they are sentenced in federal court Jan. 3.

In June Howard Bozovich, 65, was given 12 years in prison for his role in an investment scam that cost victims $1.7 million. John Bozovich, 43, was sentenced to eight years by Madison County Circuit Judge Charles Roman Jr.

At the time victims and their relatives said the punishment was not enough.

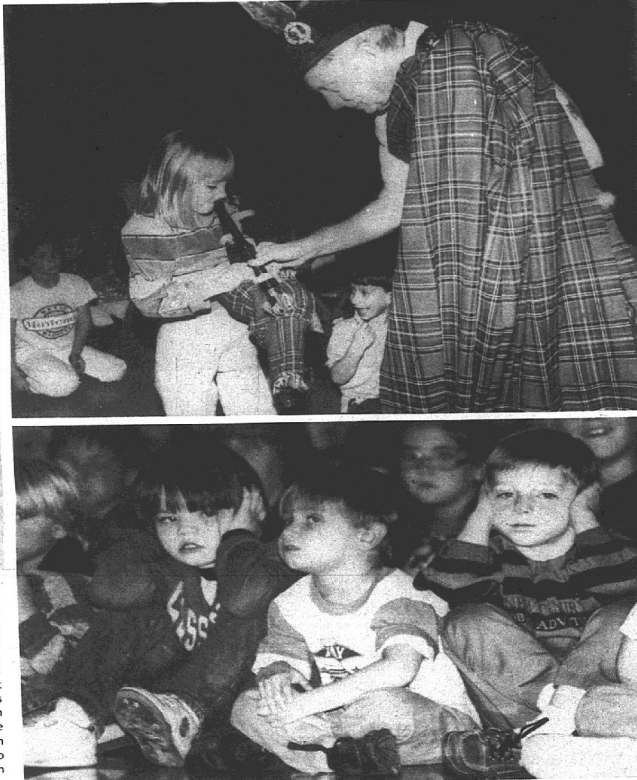

Assistant U.S. Attorney Patrick Chesley said that under federal sentencing guidelines it appears the Bozovichs will serve their federal sentences concurrently with the state sentences they are now serving.

Although the maximum sentence for the mail fraud count is five years, Chesley said the government agreed to recommend less for Howard Bozovich. There is no agreement, however, on what will be recommended for John Bozovich, he said.

He said John's projected release date from state prison is 1995 and Howard's is 1997.

In the federal conviction, the Bozovichs admitted using fraudulent documentation and forged signatures to gain control of four annuities worth more than $120,000 belonging to Roy "Danny" Siderer and his wife, Garnetta, of Alton. The Bozovichs then secretly converted the proceeds to their own use, federal authorities said.

The Bozovichs entered Alford pleas last year on charges of theft and securities fraud.

Township official faces murder charge

JERSEYVILLE — The Jersey County sheriff is holding an Elsie Township supervisor on a charge of soliciting murder but won't release details of the case.

Clemens Wendle, 57, of rural Jerseyville, was charged with solicitation of murder Thursday and is being held without bond.

Sheriff Frank Yocom said Wendle tried to hire an Illinois State Police agent to kill a female acquaintance for $1,000.

Yocom would give no further details on the case. Although Wendle was arrested Thursday, Yocom's deputies made the charge public only Monday.

Wendle has been township supervisor at least 12 years.

Township officials were stunned when they learned of Wendle's arrest, one official said.

"Wasn't everybody (shocked)? Everybody was really surprised when we heard," Township Clerk Janet Laubscher said.

Besides serving as supervisor, Wendle is a member of the Jersey County Grain Board. He headed the organization in 1990.

Wendle has also been a Democratic precinct committeeman for Elsie Township and was president of the Jersey County township officials.

Wendle has been farming his family's 950 acres for several decades.

In 1989 he was named the 1989 Conservation Farmer of the Year by the Jersey County Soil and Water Conservation District. A photograph taken at the time shows Wendle seated in the family home surrounded by his wife, Marie, whom he married in 1963, and three children.

"He's been a fantastic supervisor," Laubscher said. "He's done a lot for the township."

Madison to adopt drug-free policy

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

The city of Madison should be a drug-free workplace, Madison aldermen said Tuesday, and City Attorney Casper Nighohossian was directed to have a drug-free policy ready for approval by Nov. 23.

Alderman John Hamm said the city must have a drug-free policy in place if it is to be eligible for any of the federal help being promised in the currently-debated crime prevention bills in Congress.

"I think this is something we should have, anyway, but (the federal requirement) makes it important for us to do it quickly," Hamm said.

Police Chief Charlie Bridick said that Lt. Paul Bargiel recently attended a workshop concerning the availability of law enforcement grants and discovered that a drug-free policy was required for "almost all of them."

Nighohossian asked if the aldermen were looking for an ordinance calling for drug testing and consequences and whether it would apply to city employees and officials or just employees.

Several aldermen said it should apply to everyone.

When Nighohossian said he wasn't sure if elected officials could be required to submit to drug testing, Mayor John Bellecoff said he, and he was sure all of the aldermen, would voluntarily submit to testing.

Alderman Ed Newsome suggested that Nighohossian find out exactly what kind of drug-free policy is required for the grants and base the city policy on that.

Bellecoff said he would get copies of the drug-free workplace policies of Granite City and the Madison County Sheriff's Department and give them to Nighohossian.

Also on Tuesday, the Madison County Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving presented the police department with a portable breath-testing device to use to detect drivers under the influence of alcohol.

The device was presented in memory of Jimmy Sanders, a Madison County boy who has been in a coma since October 1989 when a drunk driver ran into his car.

Following a closed session, the aldermen voted to "accept the retirement or resignation of Robert Papa if it is submitted (Wednesday)."

Papa has worked for the city street department for almost 24 years. Sources in the department said Papa was facing possible disciplinary action, which may be dropped if he voluntarily leaves the department.

The council also authorized the negotiating committee to ask the police union for dates to begin negotiating a new contract.

Although the police have never signed the current contract, which went to arbitration that was ultimately decided in favor of the city, Nighohossian said it is considered a valid contract.

In a letter, the Police Benevolent Association, which represents the police officers, asked the city to begin contract negotiations.

Water mains to be flushed

Illinois-American Water Co. has announced it will begin flushing water mains in the Granite City area Monday.

Wayne Schlosser, Illinois-American spokesman, said the flushing is part of the company's regular maintenance program.

Schlosser said that, while crews are working in an area, the residents may have some discoloration of water and may notice a slight change in its taste and odor. He said residents should be able to clear up those problems by letting the water run for a short time.

Schlosser said the proposed hydrant flushing schedule is:

Monday, Nov. 15, through Friday, Nov. 19 — West Granite, downtown Granite City, Nameoki Village, Belleme Village and the Marshall School area.

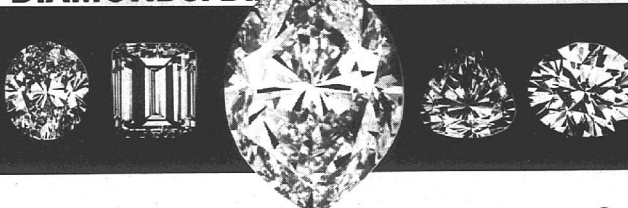

Nov. 22 through Nov. 24 — the Wilson Park area, the Lake School area and the Frohardt School area.

Nov. 29 through Dec. 3 — East Granite, Madison, East Madison, Cloverleaf and Venice.

Dec. 6 through Dec. 10 — North Granite, Briarcliff, North Nameoki Township, Pontoon Beach and the Cheshire area.

Dec. 13 through Dec. 17 — the Wellington area, West Madison and Venice.

Diabetes class next Wednesday

Kathy Haarmann, RN, BSN, certified diabetes educator and patient education coordinator at St. Elizabeth Medical Center will be part of the teaching team in a free "Take Charge of Your Diabetes" class next Wednesday.

The class will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 17, at SEMC, 2100 Madison Ave., in Granite City, in the Wiesman Room, on the first floor of the West Wing.

The class will include a general overview of diabetes, symptoms, management, exercise, testing and complications of the condition.

A registered dietician will present nutrition information related to diabetes, including information on sweeteners, fiber, label reading and fast foods. A pharmacist will speak on medications, including insulin and oral agents.

Diabetes is the number one cause of new blindness and the third leading cause of death by disease in this country. You owe it to yourself to find out all you can.

The class is free; however, space is limited, so pre-registration is required. For more information, or to pre-register, call the SEMC Education Resources Department at 798-3201.

Madison campaign fighting drug abuse

Madison's task force against drugs, Madisonians Against Drug Abuse (MADA), conducted its annual Red Ribbon campaign this fall, with activities including essay competition at the Madison Middle School.

Red Ribbon Week is an annual event throughout the United States, celebrated during the last week of October as part of the "Say No to Drugs" movement. MADA distributed red ribbons to the public on Saturday, Oct. 23, at Huck's, Quick Trip and Food for Less, all in Madison, and Bob's Red Fox in Venice.

On Friday, Oct. 29, the group distributed red ribbons at the First National Bank in Madison. Voluntary contributions were solicited to support drug education in Madison School District 12.

Organization members, volunteers and students from Madison High School assisted with the campaign. Robert L. Mehelec, president of MADA and principal of Madison High School, said about 1,500 ribbons were distributed. MADA also provided 1,200 ribbons for District 12 students and sponsored the essay contest.

MADA was founded as a community task force five years ago. Its membership consists of school personnel and community members.

The basic goal of the group is to fight a war against illegal drug use through education. It sponsors drug education programs in the schools and provides information workshops for the community.

Meetings are held on the first Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Madison Recreation Center, Seventh Street and Lee Avenue.

The "Say No" group has worked closely with the United Way in forming community task forces and receives funding from UW agencies.

How do you plan to be drug-free? I plan to be drug-free because I want to be a better person. I want to live my life as a drug-free man.

I will protect my family and friends from drugs because I believe that I can save the world. I just want to say this: These drugs are killing people and it's affecting people's lives.

People are sick and tired of people giving their kids drugs, and that is the problem in the world today. Some people are giving drugs to the kids and the kids are giving it to their kids. If you have some kids and he or she sees some drugs, leave it alone. Tell a grown-up or a parent.

If you are doing drugs, stop it! Get some help.

The drug-free program wants to give people on drugs a chance to do all the wonderful things you really can do, and so do I.

Letawrean Hardin

Deonna Madison

Second place

One reason how I plan to stay off drugs is to stay in the house. My mother buys me games and talks about drugs in the house.

My brother, who does go outside, tells me all the bad things that happen.

The second thing I plan to do to be drug-free is to hang out with a good gang and stay out of the bad ones. You make your own choices, not anyone else's.

They can't make you do anything that you don't want to do. They can stop the people who bring drugs into the United States of America. We don't have any ships, planes, boats or trains to bring that stuff in here.

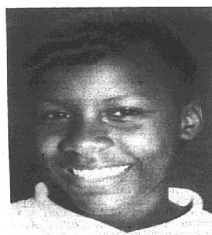

First, stop the drug seller who sells that stuff to us. If all the schools work together, instead of working against one another, we can just stop the drugs.

If (President) Bill Clinton knew what is going on out here, I think he would do something about it.

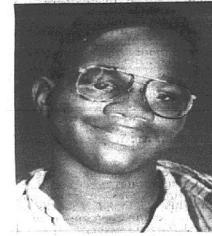

I would run away if someone approaches me with drugs. I would probably see them again, so I would tell them a thing or two.

I would say, "I'm drug-free, so you or nobody else can make me do or take anything. So get out of my face. You are going to be dead. So if I were you, I would stop using drugs."

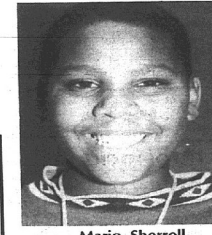

And maybe they will listen to me and stop.

If someone comes to me with drugs, I will say "no." Americans can think about their future and, if they do drugs, they will die. I will think of the right things to do for myself so I can live a lot longer.

I will be careful of what I do in the world. I think people should say no because they will be able to do more things. They will live more than five years.

Some people who do drugs are no older than 16. Some people think that it is cool to do drugs, but after awhile they are addicted and find out it is not fun.

Some people do it because their friends do it. They give you the first one free, but please don't try it because you will steal for it and you will die.

Drugs are not the answer. We don't need drugs; we need food, water, a house and clothing. So stay in school and be all you can be.

Mario Sherrell

Third place

The first thing I plan to do is to stay educated about drugs, choose my friends carefully, and stay away from drug users, pushers, fixers and dealers.

The second thing I plan to do is to learn about a variety of drugs, to be "educated."

I plan to have a great future. Now I know drugs can mess all of that up.

I know I can try to avoid drugs. I've lived around drugs. I've seen drugs day by day.

The choice for me...

DRUG FREE!

Christopher Andrews

First place

Drugs are not a part of your life, but some people think it's very cool.

Drugs will affect your life, and there won't be a way out unless you get help. People all over the world do drugs, but still it won't help you. It will hurt you and your family.

You'll just start going crazy. You'll probably kill someone for some more, but your life would be sad and/or ruined. Your life is on the line.

Drugs are like a warpath to nowhere, but still doing drugs is wrong. So we ought to be drug-free, so you won't have to be the wrong person in your life.

If you see someone doing drugs, you don't try it. If someone asks you to try some, don't do it. Your life will be simple without drugs.

Get a job and stay in school, because it's the best thing to do.

Christopher Andrews

So, stay drug-free. You will live longer without them. You should keep your life the way it is, without drugs.

Allan Moran

First place

If someone ever approached me (about using drugs), I would tell them to "get a life."

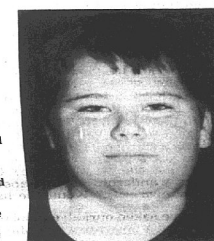

I do not do drugs and never will.

I think the government should have police at airports and by the sea.

The police should have police stationed on the back roads, front roads, highways and even on lakes leading to the sea.

I will never get involved with drugs.

If I see drugs, I would not ever think of using them.

Allan Moran

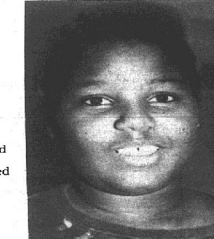

James Spruiell

Second place

One day I was walking home from school when someone tried to sell me drugs.

I said "no thanks" and walked away and ran home.

I told my mother and my father.

James Spruiell

Bradley Sipes

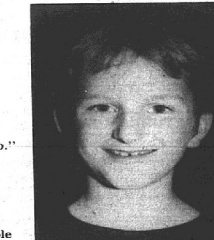

Third place

If someone asked me if I wanted drugs, I would say "no."

Then I would run away.

I think America can stop drugs in our state by putting more police on patrol.

I plan to be a doctor for St. Elizabeth Medical Center. I could treat all the people that have been shot by drunk people and treat people in car accidents.

Bradley Sipes

Carla Holik

Third place

If someone came to me with drugs trying to give or sell them to me, I would go away and tell someone about it. Or tell that person "no."

I think that the government should try to keep drug sellers locked up or off the streets.

I plan to keep myself drug-free by not getting involved with drug users or sellers and by thinking for myself and not listening to what others may think is the thing to do when it's wrong.

Carla Holik

Giving comfort and aid

Support group aids women who lost sons in military

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

Robert Poole died defending his country as a member of the U.S. Navy during World War II. The loss still is painful for his mother, Julia Garner.

"I wake up and cry for my son and it's been over 50 years," she said. "You never get over it."

Garner, 87, of south St. Louis, said she has been able to deal with the tragedy in part by participating in American Gold Star Mothers Inc., a non-profit organization for mothers whose children have died while they were serving in the U.S. military.

Garner said it helps to meet with women who have shared the same experiences.

"That's what it was all about, at first — giving and receiving comfort," she said. "It helped me by joining. It helped meeting others in a similar position. We knew how the other people felt. You just can't talk to someone who didn't lose a son. They can't understand. A neighbor lost a son in June of 1942 and I went over and said I thought I knew how she felt, but I didn't. It wasn't until I lost my son in 1943 that I understood her pain."

Garner is a member of the organization's St. Louis chapter. She is a past president of the chapter, as well as a past president of the state Gold Star Mothers organization.

The current president of the St. Louis chapter, Susie K. Moore, lost her son, Karl, in 1966.

Moore, 65, of Crestwood, agreed that the Gold Star Mothers organization is a place to find comfort from others who have gone through the same situation.

"There aren't very many people who have lost children," Moore said. "We don't want to be bitter. It's our way of serving."

"We do not get together and cry and complain about it. It's just that we share something, we share a pain. We understand each other."

Moore said her organization does what it can to support U.S. active and retired military personnel and associated organizations.

"The purpose of our organization is to be of service to the hospitalized veterans and other similar charitable causes," she said. "We have mothers who go to the Jefferson Barracks and John Cochran veterans hospitals. They contribute money and time to the veterans. We also contribute to the USO at Lambert Field."

"We cooperated with INTER-VETS, a cooperative of all the veterans' organizations."

On the national level, the Gold Star Mothers have been working on the Stand Down program for homeless veterans.

The main fund-raising event of the Gold Star Mothers is Rose Bud Days, held the first Friday and Saturday of September of each year.

Moore said that even though her organization includes mothers from varying age groups, the members are able to connect with one another.

"I've been talking to various mothers," she said. "The Vietnam mothers have expressed gratitude to the World War II mothers for being there for them. Even from different wars, we all seem to understand each other."

Garner, a widow, had two other sons serve in the military after World War II. Both now live in Missouri. Robert was a first-class seaman when he was killed at the age of 19 when his ship, the DeHaven, was bombed at Guadalcanal.

Moore and her husband, Bruce, have one other son, Karl, a captain, died of a cerebral hemorrhage at the age of 25 while stationed in Germany as a platoon commander in the Army Corps of Engineers.

Lazerson to be honored at 2 events in December

Two events scheduled in December will honor President Earl Lazerson of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, who is retiring Jan. 1.

University, regional and state leaders will join members of the Presidents Council of the SIUE Foundation in recognizing the president's 24 years of service to SIUE at a $30-a-plate dinner, Dec. 2 in the University Center's Meridian Hall. The banquet is open to the public and the event will begin with a social hour at 6 p.m. Reservations will be accepted until Nov. 23 by the SIUE Foundation, telephone 692-2245.

On Dec. 9, an open reception for President and Mrs. Lazerson will be held in the conference area of the University Center, from 3 until 5 p.m. All members of the University community are invited.

Lazerson plans a year of professional leave, after which he will consider returning to SIUE as a professor of mathematics. A search for his successor as president has been under way since Trustees later this month.

Lazerson came to SIUE in 1969 as a member of the mathematics faculty. He moved up to chair the department in 1972 and became dean of the School of Science and Technology a year later. In 1976, he was named vice president for academic affairs and provost. In September 1978, he was appointed acting president, and he has served as president since July 1980.

Lazerson has been honored by many regional, state and national education and civic organizations, and under his leadership, SIUE has been acclaimed one of the best comprehensive undergraduate institutions in the nation.

Group invites women to monthly meetings

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

The St. Louis chapter of American Gold Star Mothers meets at 11:30 a.m. on the second Tuesday of each month at the Soldiers Memorial at the corner of 14th and Chestnut in downtown St. Louis.

"We're always looking for new members," said Susie K. Moore, president of the chapter. "We would welcome any mother into the organization who has lost a son or daughter in the military, any time."

There are 60 members of the St. Louis chapter and approximately 3,000 members of the national organization.

"There are quite a few women who could join, but maybe don't know about us," Moore said.

Mothers who have lost children in military service can benefit greatly by joining the organization, said Julia Garner, who lost her son during World War II.

"Some people just don't want to join — it's too fresh in their minds," said Garner, 87, of south St. Louis. "I feel it would help them if they could join."

Moore, 65, of Crestwood, added, "When a child dies, it's so fresh in your mind you don't want anything to do with an organization like this, because you think it's going to keep the pain alive."

"But, after a while, you begin to realize that you need that support. You need it. It might be years later when you realize, 'My God, it's still hurting.'"

The organization is strictly for mothers. Moore said, "The organization is for mothers who have lost a son or daughter while serving in the military."

The organization has only two chapters — one in St. Louis and one in Springfield.

"We have members from all around the St. Louis area, Columbia, Mo., Elsberry, Festus and some from Nebraska, because their branch folded," Moore said.

Members pay dues of $11 per year. For more information or to join, call Moore at 842-1264 or Marzette Lakine at 381-9083.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Recently a man who had lost his job came to this office contemplating bankruptcy. He was four months behind on his car payment. Both of these assets were pledged as security on bank notes. The creditors were threatening to repossess these items of personal property if the arrearages were not paid in full.

The question arose as to whether the debtor should file a Chapter 7 bankruptcy, also known as a "straight" bankruptcy, or a Chapter 13 Wage Earner Plan. Under a Chapter 7, the debtor lists all of his unsecured debts on the bankruptcy petition and usually is allowed to discharge in full all of these obligations. With a Chapter 13, however, the individual sets up a plan to pay the creditors on a monthly basis over a three to five year period.

In helping the client decide what course of action to follow, the primary question was whether the debtor wished to keep the trailer and car or surrender them to the creditors. If the client hoped to keep the property and filed a Chapter 7 straight bankruptcy, he would have to immediately bring all the arrearages current.

In most cases, where people are experiencing financial difficulties, of course, they are unable to instantly pay four or five months of payments. One advantage to a Chapter 13 Wage Earner Plan in this situation is that the debtor can pay the back payments over a three to five year period and thus keep the property. The creditor is not allowed to repossess the property if the debtor files a Chapter 13 and makes his back payments on a regular basis.

What course of action would be best for the client in our example? In this case, the debtor was only drawing unemployment benefits and was unable to make the monthly payments on the trailer or the car. To establish a Chapter 13 Plan and attempt to pay the back payments over time appeared to be a futile effort. The debtor was not interested in keeping the assets due to his present financial situation. In this case, he decided to file a Chapter 7 straight bankruptcy and return the trailer and car to the respective creditors. This meant that the creditors could never pursue him in an effort to collect any balances owed on the notes.

Jury deliberates in Germania trial

A federal prosecutor who claims two former Germania-Bank executives "fooled and defrauded" customers urged a jury to resist becoming part of the group.

"Ladies and gentlemen, don't let them fool you, too," Assistant U.S. Attorney Bruce Reppert told the 12 jurors as he finished his closing arguments late Monday afternoon in U.S. District Court in East St. Louis.

The jury was deliberating the government's case against former Germania President Steve Gardner and Chairman Edward Morris. The two men are charged with mail and wire fraud for allegedly bilking 800 customers of $10 million in 1987 sale of uninsured capital notes, called "schnotes."

Reppert was calm and pointed in his closing in the court of U.S. District Judge William Beatty. Reppert described how Gardner and Morris allegedly duped Laclede Gas Co. into investing $5.8 million in the uninsured bank analysis of Germania's loan portfolio that showed the bank was expecting a $9 million loss.

"That's why they went ahead with the schnotes offering because without it, Germania was in big trouble," Reppert told the jury. He said the bank executives didn't act to "take reserves" on the $9 million "because Germania wanted to show a profit for the third quarter of 1987."

Laclede Gas President Les Liberman, the last witness called by the prosecutor, had testified that the deal would have been "blown" if Laclede executives had known of the analysis.

The Laclede investment was used as a way of legitimizing the offer," Reppert said.

The notes were sold mostly to customers in Illinois in an effort to pump new operating money into the failing bank. The government contends Gardner and Morris intentionally concealed facts concerning the bank's financial health and made misleading statements and false representation, "all intended to defraud the stockholders," Reppert said.

He said Gardner, 45, had an "immense ego" and described Morris as "a man who wanted to be captain of his own ship."

Defense attorneys said in their closing arguments that the prosecution had put a "spin" on the facts. They also highlighted their clients' honesty and professional ism.

"Two things are certain: People who bought schnotes lost a lot of money and neither Mr. Morris or Mr. Gardner intended for anyone to lose money and never devised a scheme to defraud," said Morris' attorney Arthur Margulis.

"The loss of money is, I think, tragic. But you can't take sympathy into account," Margulis told the jurors. "You are not permitted to by law."

A number of elderly people lost their life savings in the schnotes when Germania collapsed in June 1990. The bank was seized by the U.S. Office of Thrift Supervision that month. Most of its assets were sold by July 1991 to Mercantile Bancorporation of St. Louis for $3.3 million.

Margulis told the jury that Morris' son invested $2,500 in schnotes and U.S. Public Debt Secretary John W. DeLoach, representing Gardner, said his client was a family man who bought Germania stock for his retirement during the sale of the schnotes.

"Why would he do that if he was planning for people to lose money or for the bank to fail?" Dwyer asked the jurors.

Said Margulis: "Character evidence alone may create a reasonable doubt."

In his rebuttal to the closing arguments of the defense, Reppert was more animated, pacing in front of the jury, stopping only to bang his fist on a podium.

"No one is questioning Mr. Morris' or Mr. Gardner's right to gamble with their own money. But they did not have the right to gamble with Germania customers' money," he said. "You have sat through three weeks of this trial and I don't know how many witnesses. Knowing what you do now, would you have invested a substantial amount of your life savings? Of course not."

"It was described as a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. For Germania investors, unfortunately, it was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity."

A third former Germania executive, Chief Financial Officer Jimmie W. New, pleaded guilty September 1992 to federal mail fraud in the sale of the schnotes and testified for the prosecution.

Stratford Hotel ordered: Carry out safety repairs

A Madison County judge has dropped the ball on Alton's oldest hotel.

Owners of the Stratford Motor Hotel have been ordered to comply with a state order to repair fire-safety violations.

The repairs could cost the hotel, but in 1992, more than $200,000, hotel attorney Ted Diaz has said.

In an order released Monday, Madison County Associate Judge Michael Meenan said the hotel has had ample time to make improvements.

"The record shows that the State Fire Marshal has been attempting to correct the dangerous conditions of the Stratford since at least 1983. While the hotel has made some improvements and has offered to make other changes, 10 years (is) long enough. The Stratford has had a reasonable time for compliance."

Diaz could not be reached for comment Monday, and Gordon Gaylord, a member of the family that owns the hotel, did not return phone calls.

Madison County Circuit Court when Diaz challenged the fire marshal's order and a hearing officer's decision to uphold the order.

If the order is not followed, the hotel could be forced to close.

Officials of the State Fire Marshal's Office could not be reached for comment.

The Fire Marshal's Office issued the order for safety improvements in February 1992 after an inspection. Officials said they found repeated violations of a 1988 state safety law, which had been cited in a 1989 inspection.

Diaz has said in the past that the owners may close the hotel at Third and Market streets rather than spend the more than $200,000 estimated to meet fire code requirements. The Gaylords have said they are trying to sell the hotel.

Diaz argued that the Stratford should be excluded from the rules because the hotel was built before the safety law was established. He also claimed the hotel is fireproof.

Meenan's order cited several safety risks, including inadequate emergency lighting, exit signs and fire-alarm system. He also said that while the building may have been built with steel-reinforced concrete, materials inside the building create a risk.

Meenan also said fire safety concerns outweigh considerations of the difficulty of making improvements.

"This court is sensitive to the Stratford's difficulties with compliance. However," this court must follow the law.

The fire marshal's order calls for several improvements, including an enclosed stairway, accessible exits, fire-resistant doors, a new fire-alarm system and smoke detectors.

girlfriend's apartment four blocks away, police said.

Police who went to the apartment were met at the door by Burns' girlfriend, Adena Burns, 19, who was wrapped in a towel. Burns said that she had not taken a shower and had not seen Branch, police said.

Branch ran out the front door and fled down the street — still naked — police said. But he was soon apprehended nearby.

Burns was also arrested and charged with obstructing justice. In the lobby of the police station Monday afternoon, Branch and Burns could be heard conversing from their respective jail cells.

Adena: I love you," Branch yelled.

"Did you call your mom? Does she have the (bail) money? Did you tell her you already have $42?" he yelled.

Burns' mother apparently did not come up with the $4,000 cash needed to post Branch's $40,000 bond.

Branch was additionally charged with escape in a warrant issued Tuesday. Bond on that warrant is an additional $40,000.

Branch was being held in the Madison County Jail on Wednesday.

•Board

After listing the accomplishments of the outgoing board, Wilkerson blasted Worthen, Novack, Noeth and Whitaker for what she called "an election colorfully tainted with half-truths ... and lies."

Wilkerson said Noeth's comment in the Nov. 4 Press-Record, "Certainly we need to be first for the kids and politics need to be left out of the decision-making process," reflected a refreshing "change of heart" on Noeth's part.

The board voted to continue to hold its meetings on the second and fourth Tuesdays each month, but at 7 p.m. one-half hour earlier than meetings have been held in the past.

Little other action took place at the meeting.

One of the new board's first major tasks will be to select four elementary principals for the 1994-95 school year.

That matter was on the board's agenda two weeks ago, but was placed on hold until the new board could be seated.

The selections, required by retirements and promotions, are expected to be made at the first board meeting in December.

late Wednesday or today to pinpoint the exact cause of death, said Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke.

"The crime scene itself looks as if she were thrown from a vehicle into the ditch," Church said.

"There is absolutely no possibility of the woman having been struck by a car. We're investigating this as a violent homicide."

The body, found about 11:35 p.m. Tuesday on Hanfeler Road near Illinois Route 111, is described as a white female in her 30s, about 140 pounds, with shoulder-length dark brown hair and blue eyes.

Sheriff's department detectives found no identification or rings on the body, but had been opmistic that her fingerprints would lead to her identification, Church said.

The woman was discovered by a motorist driving to Pontiac Beach who returned to the site with a friend, thinking the body was a mannequin, he said.

Technicians from the Illinois State Police Crime Laboratory, three Sheriff's Department detectives and two deputies spent the night processing the scene and returned Wednesday to ensure that no evidence was missed in the dark, Church said.

Detectives also spent Wednesday scouring area motels looking for leads, he said.

Detective Capt. Roy Koberna said yesterday there had been no reports indicating the crime had occurred in Granite City.

before spring." Greathouse said. "Maybe there will be floods, but I can't imagine it being like this summer."

"We're keeping doing what we're supposed to do and take what comes, I guess. That's all I know to do."

Greathouse said this week's meeting was his first with the Corps of Engineers since the Great Flood of 1993 and he thanked the Corps for its cooperation and assistance during the record flooding.

"When you figure levees went on all sides of us — north at Alton, south at Monroe County and over across the river — it's pretty amazing how well we did."

"The Corps congratulated us, but I said the people who voted for the tax increase (several years ago) were the ones to be congratulated."

"We spent $9 million, maybe $10 million, on gravity drains and things like that, but that those were the very things that controlled the flooding."

"We were lucky that got done first — it was the Corps' idea."

Christmas Seals Kick Off Week set for next week

The American Lung Association is hosting its 10th annual Christmas Seal campaign with Christmas Seal Kick Off Week, Nov. 13.

The first Christmas Seal was sold in Wilmington, Del., in 1907 to help fund a local tuberculosis sanatorium. Today, donations raised through the seals are used to fight all lung diseases and their related causes, including smoking, asthma and occupational lung disease through public education and research.

Approximately 90 percent of the money raised through donations to Christmas Seals remain in your local community and is spent fighting lung disease. Lung disease, including lung cancer, ranks as the third leading cause of death in the United States.

Olympic medalist Kristi Yamaguchi is the national chairman for the Christmas Seal campaign, the second consecutive year. Through her efforts, Yamaguchi is trying to help reduce the number of individuals suffering from lung disease.

One in 10 Americans suffers from chronic lung disease. In the last decade, the death rate from lung disease has risen faster than the death rate of any other killer disease. Among infants, breathing problems are the number one cause of death.

Please support the American Lung Association's 1993 Christmas Seal campaign and help to reduce the suffering of those with lung disease, especially this holiday season.

To request your Christmas Seals, phone your local American Lung Association at 618-692-0585.

Salvation Army has tree troubles

By Kevin Glenn
Staff writer

The Salvation Army on Monday raised — and then dropped — its Tree of Lights at the Belleville Public Square, joked Army Capt. Nathan Johnson, helping a crane operator guide the enormous tree back on a trailer.

The tree had been cut from the Salvation Army's own property, on land destined to become a parking lot for a planned expansion, Johnson said. It looked good on the lot, but fell apart during Monday afternoon's raising.

"I've got to find a tree in four days — by Friday," Johnson said, shaking his head.

At noon Friday, the Army kicks off its annual Christmas bell-ringing campaign in a ceremony on the square. The city's victory event gets off the ground with vivid memories of summer still on many people's minds.

"We're still doing flood duty in three counties," Johnson said, "and that will not end."

Johnson set the Tree of Lights campaign goal at $315,000, which tops last year's goal by $15,000, he said.

"The need has never been greater," Johnson said.

Last year, the Army distributed 850 Christmas baskets, he said, an increase of 200 from the year before.

Earlier beginning for grid practice will be adjustment

How many high school football teams qualify for the state playoffs?

The answer is 192, meaning six classes of 32 teams each.

HOW MANY high schools have varsity football teams in the state of Illinois?

The answer is 544 as of last season.

Althoff coach Glenn Schott does not like the numbers, and he has begged the IHSA to open the playoffs to all teams — to no avail.

But the number really getting to Schott is 10 — as in Aug. 10, the starting date for football practice next fall.

"It's because of moving the Wednesday date to Saturday in the first round of the playoffs," Schott said. "Because of the playoffs being longer, we will have to start practice sooner."

THUS, 70 accommodate 192 out of 544, the entire state will begin practice in almost a full week earlier in the heat of August. That could mean higher temperatures, shorter vacations — and limited practices.

"The heat is just one of the problems," Schott said.

"The picking and choosing of (schedules) by teams in conferences continues to cause open dates, and with the season starting a week earlier, you're going to have some schools playing before the first day of school."

For Althoff, the opener will be Aug. 26 or 27 against Alton.

"They can put us in (Class) 5A or put us anywhere they want," said Schott. "I just want to see the playoffs opened to everyone."

If that were done, it would eliminate Althoff from trying to fill its independent schedule by having to play in Kentucky or against a St. Andrew Tinley Park at Champaign.

Even a team like East St. Louis played in Chicago and Birmingham, Ala., this season.

An all-school playoffs would reduce the regular season to eight games. If scheduling problems continue, others may appreciate Schott's wish.

Meanwhile, a school like Waterloo, with the largest enrollment in the Cahokia Conference, had best watch out. Should the Bulldogs continue to dominate and an enrollment of 611 increase too quickly, you can bet grumbling will grow no differently than the Mississippi Valley, where O'Fallon's demise was related to numbers.

OVERTIME: One of the first schools to clinch a playoff berth this season via winning its conference was New Berlin, which has one of my favorite nicknames — the Pretzels.

Coached by Jeff Harries, who attended Columbia and Duquo High Schools, New Berlin-Franklin was 5-1 in the Western Area Conference to earn a Class 1A spot for the second consecutive year.

According to a story passed along to me, in one game Harries, in his second year as varsity coach, had a 20-0 first-quarter lead when he gained the wrath of an opposing coach.

It seems Harries raised his left arm to signal for his kicker man to kick the ball to the left and avoid the opposition's best return player.

Problem was, the kicker misunderstood the sign and booted an onside kick that a teammate recovered.

Warriors skate to 4-2 win over Hazelwood East

Jason Crites scored two goals, and the Warrior hockey team opened play Tuesday night at home with a 4-2 win over Hazelwood East in a practice game.

THE WARRIORS, playing in the upper division of the Mid-States Club Hockey Association this year, will open regular-season play Monday at Fox. Granite City won the Mid-States American Conference Challenge Cup last year.

Coach Jake Hinterser said Tuesday's win was a good way to start.

"We played everybody to get them some experience," Hinterser said. "We're basically a young team this year."

"We were trying out some new combinations. We kind of drifted to an individual style in the third period and kind of got out of our routine."

Hazelwood East scored both of its goals in the third period.

Crites, a junior forward, led the way offensively. Junior Chris Valencia and senior Ryan Gaddy also scored for the Warriors.

Granite City's Ryan Gaddy, a senior center, scored in Tuesday's victory.

Hamilton enjoys quick transition with Cougars

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

P.J. Hamilton began the golf season at Southern Illinois-Edwardsville earlier this fall just shooting for a spot on the team.

As a freshman walk-on, Hamilton had to beat out several upperclassmen for a spot with the Cougars. But he didn't take long for coach Al Ortegren to clear the way for the team's newcomer.

IN HIS FIRST college tournament, Sept. 7 at the Eastern Illinois University Invitational, Hamilton shot a 76 to help lead the Cougars to a sixth-place team finish.

Hamilton shot a 41 and 35 to rank fourth among his teammates, Cougars.

That proved to be good enough to make the team, and Hamilton has since developed into one of SIUE's top players.

"He's played well for a freshman," Ortegren said. "He's been very competitive."

"I like his work ethic. I'm real pleased with his desire to be a better player. He's new at the game and a really good kid. He wants to work hard; the only thing he lacks is the experience."

Hamilton, the only freshman playing for the Cougars, beat out several older players to earn a spot for the team's tournaments this year. He played in three tournaments and finished with an average of 79.6 over 18 holes.

THAT PLACED him right behind SIUE senior Jeff Janssen of Petersburg, Ill. Janssen had a team-low average of 77.2 and was the team's scoring leader last year along with another senior, Don Coleman.

"I really didn't set my sights that high, being a freshman," Hamilton said. "I thought I had a lot to prove, and I just wanted to help our team."

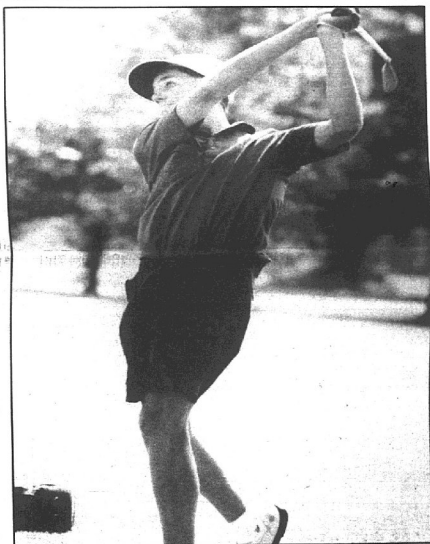

"I thought I had pretty good play. To walk on and make the team, I think that was a pretty good accomplishment."

Hamilton, who helped lead the Warriors to the state tournament as a senior last year, improved as the season went on. In mid-September, Hamilton made the cut to travel with the Cougars to a tournament at the University of Northern Iowa.

Hamilton shot a 79, 82 and 81 over 54 holes in the two-day tournament, held in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

"IF HE HAD putted a little better, his scores could have been even lower," Ortegren said.

Coolidge cagers (0-1) learning under Edwards

By Mike Kelly
Correspondent

It's going to be a learning year for basketball coach Mike Edwards and the Coolidge Junior High Braves.

Coming off a 9-11 season, Edwards inherits a team that won only one game last year as seventh graders. The Braves stumbled out of the gate in their season opener Tuesday against Roxana, dropping a 40-23 decision. But Edwards remains optimistic.

"WE JUST NEED a few games under our belts and we'll be just fine," he said. "This is a determined group of kids. We have size, quickness and the talent to compete. But, unlike past years, the junior high level is loaded."

"Every team on our schedule will pose a strong challenge. We'll have our work cut out for us."

Roxana lived up to that billing by breaking an eight-game losing streak against the Braves.

(See CAGERS, Page 4B)

game," Edwards said. "We utilized the press and forced six turnovers right off the bat, but we only converted one layup out of those turnovers."

"If we convert three or four baskets out of that, it would have turned the game completely around. Our kids just haven't developed a killer instinct."

JERRY JACKSON (5-foot-8, 140 pounds) didn't have too many problems cracking the starting lineup. He poured in eight points against Roxana. His running mates will be Robert Davis (5-6) at the small forward spot and Mark Achenback (6-1, 180) at center.

"Those kids have made marked improvements from last year," Edwards said. "Jerry can score, Robert is a good left-handed shooter and Mark is strong on the boards. Once they jell, they'll be a force."

Steve Graham (5-3), the son of former SIUE coach Larry Graham, is Coolidge's most experienced player. A defensive standout, Graham was voted the

Coolidge ends grid season with 3-2 mark

The Coolidge Junior High football team finished the year on a winning note last month with a 28-8 win over Roxana.

THE BRAVES ENDED the season 3-2 under coach Terry Yates. The team was coming off a tough 8-0 loss to Grigsby in the city title game Oct. 14.

"It was good to finish up with a win," Yates said. "It was almost a letdown after the Grigsby game (But), we had a good season."

Coolidge tailback Robert Davis scored three touchdowns to lead the Braves past Roxana. Quarterback Lester Brown added the other scores.

Brown, Davis and fullback Jason Israel formed a steady backfield for Coolidge this season. The Braves' running attack led the team to wins over Edwardsville and Jerseyville.

"WE HAD A decent running game," Yates said. "We had a good 1-2 punch in the backfield."

The Braves' other offensive starters were center Justin Gardiner; guards Roger Carper, Danny Dohage and Eric Smith; tackles Justin Williamson, Alex Prokopich and Roger Carper; ends Ahmad Allen, David Colp and Mason Czarr; and running backs Rocky Smith and Jonas Janek.

Defensively, the Braves started several of the same players. Colp, Eric Samuels and Chris Evans played end. Williamson, Prokopich and Ryan Carper played tackle. Israel played

Shootout to showcase top local, national talent

Tickets for the 13th annual Coca-Cola/KMOX Shootout, the premier high school basketball event of its kind in the nation, are on sale at numerous St. Louis area locations. The event is scheduled for Dec. 9 at The Arena in St. Louis. Games begin at 12:30 p.m.

The seven-game showcase consists of six boys games and one girls contest. It is presented again this season by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of St. Louis and KMOX Radio. Co-sponsors are Amoco Food Shops, Boatmen's Banks and American Sporting Goods. Amoco and Boatmen's are new sponsors.

THIS YEAR'S Shootout features a showdown between two of the country's top 10 girls teams: No. 1-ranked St. Joseph's Academy of St. Louis, with a 71-game winning streak, and perennial national power Shelbyville Central of Shelbyville, Tenn.

The event also includes nationally ranked boys teams such as Mater Dei of Santa Ana, Calif.; Mount Carmel of Chicago; and Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis. In the lineup are three defending Missouri state champions—Jefferson City (Class 4A), St. Francis Borgia (Class 3A) and St. Joseph's Academy (three consecutive Class 4A titles).

All-America boys players in the spotlight will include 6-foot-8 Indiana University-bound Andrae Patterson of Abilene (Texas) Cooper; 6-6 guard Antoine Walker of Chicago Mount Carmel; 6-10 Jahidi White of Cardinal Ritter; 6-4 Miles Simon of Santa Ana (Calif.); Mater Dei; 6-8 Tyrone Nesby of Cairo, Ill.; 6-4 Ryan Robertson of St. Charles (Mo.) West; and 7-0 Monte Hardge of Jefferson City, Mo.

All-America girls players include 6-2 Kristin Folk of St. Joseph's Academy, a leading candidate for National High School Player of the Year in both basketball and volleyball; 6-2 Consuella Sparrow of Shelbyville Central; and 5-11 Mollie Peirick of St. Joseph's Academy.

ALL SEVEN GAMES will be part of a single session beginning 12:30 p.m. Games will start every hour and a half. Tickets are reserved, priced at $12 and $10, and cover the entire day's activities. Spectators may come and go throughout the day, provided they keep their ticket stub and get their hand stamped in The Arena lobby.

According to event director Keith Pickett of Columbia, The Arena's basketball floor will be positioned again at one end of the facility and a giant curtain will be placed across the other end.

"This setup worked quite well the last two sessions at The Arena," Pickett said. "Under this alignment, The Arena's seating capacity is approximately 12,000, and all of the seats in the horseshoe end are noseguard, and the linebackers were Janek, Smith, Ryan Moneymaker and Carl Morton. The Braves defeated Edwardsville 22-16 to open the season, then lost to Bealto 28-6. Coolidge entered the Grigsby game 2-1 after defeating Jerseyville 20-16.

The Braves held the high-scoring Gators without a touchdown until late in the fourth quarter, when a blocked punt by Grigsby's Chris Bush set up the winning score deep in Coolidge territory. Yates said Samuels helped contain Grigsby's passing offense.

"(Samuels) practically shut down Grigsby's passing attack by himself," Yates said. "They had to do other things."

"But their defense did a real good job. We couldn't get untracked offensively. I think Grigsby had a very good team. We were the underdogs going in."

Yates was assisted by Jim

Greenwald and Ron Yates this year. Greenwald coached the seventh-grade team.

"We're going to reap the benefits next year," Terry Yates said. "We're looking forward to it."

Yates said the majority of his eighth-graders will continue playing next year at Granite City High School.

"Hopefully, they'll join with the Grigsby bunch and have a real good freshman team," Yates said.

The Cougars struggled as a team, but Hamilton enjoyed his best outing of the year. He shot an 80 to finish in an eighth-place tie among individuals in the 12-team tournament.

The winning score was 75. Ortegren said only seven players broke 80.

"HE HAD A good tournament," Ortegren said. "I think he made a dramatic change with his putts."

Hamilton said, "I wish the team could have done a little better."

"Coach helped me a lot with my putting. It was nice finishing on a good note."

With the fall season over, Hamilton will concentrate on classes and starting up again with the team next spring.

HAMILTON'S PERFORMANCE this fall on the Division II level gave him a good feeling about the rest of his freshman year.

"I'm definitely looking forward to the spring season," Hamilton said. "It'll give me a lot more opportunities to play better."

"If his putting strokes keep getting better, that bodes well for the spring," Ortegren said.

To help laryngectomy patients, their family and friends learn to cope with communicating after a laryngectomy, a group of associates at St. Elizabeth Medical Center have formed the Laryngectomy Support Group. The group will meet at 3:30 p.m. the third Thursday of each month at the medical center.

"It is very difficult for most people to imagine what a person goes through when their line of communication is taken away," said Debbie Hamilton, director of 3-Surgical and member of the laryngectomy task force.

"Most of the time the patient learns to communicate with written notes while at the medical center, but upon discharge they seem to be forgotten. They have the ability to speak, through learning esophageal speech or use of the electralarynx, but when faced with the real world, it all can become very overwhelming."

Hamilton joined other associates at SEMC who deliver care to laryngectomy patients in forming a task force to establish the support group. These include Sister Stephanie Turk, CDP and speech therapist; Julie Probus-Schad, MSW; Judy McDaniel, RN from 3-Surgical; Pam Downing, RN from 3-Surgical; and Barb McCormick, RN from 3-Surgical.

"Each person on the task force has worked very hard to develop the support group," Hamilton said. "We have been revising our plan of care, improving the consistency of care each patient receives. We want to do whatever is necessary to ensure each patient gets the best care possible."

A member of the task force will follow a laryngectomy patient's treatment from the time he or she is prescreened at the medical center through each step of treatment. Members will also make a follow-up call to the patient's home after he or she is released.

At the first meeting, George Grimm, who received his laryngectomy in 1986, will speak about his experiences.

"We wanted to be sure to involve the spouse or significant other of the patient in the support group because they are the ones who deal with the patient and his frustrations on a day-to-day basis," Hamilton said.

If you would like more information about the laryngectomy support group, call 798-3137.

Horoscope

Today, the sun favors Uranus and the moon passes through smooth-operating Libra. In business, treat customers with extra consideration—they'll notice the difference. In partnerships, firm up your commitments to others or think about areas that need improvement. The sun favoring Uranus lets you trust your flashes of insight. In any event, be your best and take steps to liberate yourself from overall restrictive conditions.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 11) Routine and hard work give way to an exhilarating change of pace. Regular private time is imperative in December to help you get through the holiday season. In '94, personal freedom is the key. Favorable travel conditions begin in February. April and July. Modernize business procedures in March. Projects started in May develop quickly. Explore new alliance possibilities in June or August. Unexpected gain comes in September.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) No one can motivate others to get off the dime as well you. When you truly want to do something, you can make it happen—despite opposition. You will soon have a relationship that finally lives up to your expectations.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You have a stabilizing influence on others, especially when they're emotional. Having to live under someone else's domination is definitely not your idea of fun. Happiness is self-generated and self-inflicted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Speed up the success game by following proven strategies gleaned from those you respect. You would make a good counselor—all you need is the training. Working at home is one way to help meet expenses.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) Going on a trip together could help revive a fading relationship. You need beauty around you to keep your emotions in place. Don't go into business alone, unless you operate out of your home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take advantage of the various potentials in your social life—you could connect with someone on the subway or the bus. You might feel more intimate moments to share.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be willing to compromise with your companion to make the most of joint funds. Career-connected social events go better than expected. A new romantic partner could come along when you're working out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A busy schedule at work may require you to buckle down and give your best effort. Take sufficient time to get in touch with your own needs and desires. Phone calls may put you in touch with a lucky opportunity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Stay away from ego conflicts with a business partner. Focus on what you're trying to achieve. A romantic tete-a-tete is an exciting possibility. Making money is never enough—balance practical needs with ideals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) There's more than meets the eye concerning favorable job opportunities and improvements. An unpromising emotional situation may stem from a conflict between home and business interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) With regard to business affairs, either back down or be prepared to hold the fort. Being yourself is the best career strategy. You can see a new romance start, or an old one is rekindled. Your personal chemistry works for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Avoid communication problems before they become habitual. You may soon find yourself on the road and longing for the sheer freedom of it. Maintain integrity, and you will attract those who are on your wavelength.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Visit, chat and catch up on the latest happenings with close friends. It is possible to do what you love and make a great living at it. Faraway places continue to beckon.

Breaking records in music industry

By Bill Beggs
Correspondent

BROKEN RECORDS: The Billboard charts are the world championships of commercial success in music. As in the world of sports, few records stand forever. In 1992, the record for a pop single's run at the top was broken not once, but twice. The King, if he were definitely dead, would be rolling over in the back yard at Graceland.

1. Who wrote the song that holds the record for longevity atop the Hot 100, "I Will Always Love You," the version by Whitney Houston that was No. 1 for 14 weeks in late 1992 and early 1993?
2. What song by doo-wop revivalists Boyz II Men was dislodged last November by Houston's all-time smash?
3. Houston's record also was the death knell for what Elvis Presley hit that had been unchallenged 11 weeks at No. 1—since August 1956?
4. Getting to No. 1 is no mean feat, but at least 20 times have stayed there two months or more. What 1968 song by The Beatles is that group's one and only in this pop pantheon?
5. Who recorded the version of "Mack The Knife" that ushered in on top for nine weeks in 1959?
6. Whose song named "Jump" held down the No. 1 slot for eight weeks, in what year?

ANSWERS:

1. Dolly Parton
2. "End Of The Road"
3. "Don't Be Cruel" (which could attribute much of its success to its B-side, "Hound Dog")
4. "Hey Jude" stayed at No. 1 for nine weeks
5. Bobby Darin
6. Kris Kross, 1992 (Van Halen's "Jump," 1984, was at No. 1 for five weeks)
7. "Tonight's The Night (Gonna Be Alright)"
8. Elvis, with three; his other two are "All Shook Up" (nine weeks, 1957) and "Heartbreak Hotel" (eight weeks, 1956)
9. Olly Murs, daughter of Pat, was at No. 1 for 10 weeks with the treacly "You Light Up My Life" (Extra credit: The ultimate "one-hit wonder," Debby Boone never was heard from in the Top 40 again; she had moderate success as a country singer)

Cathy Braaten, a singer-songwriter who recently received seven awards at the Nashville Music City Songwriters Festival, will perform in concert today on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The event is sponsored by the Gay and Lesbian Association of Students at SIUE (GLASS) and the University Center Board.

Braaten, whose music is a mixture of blues and soul, will perform with rock 'n' roll, will perform at 8 p.m. in the University Restaurant on the second floor of SIUE's University Center.

The singer-songwriter, who hails from a small Minnesota town, writes songs from her life and view of the world. From socio-political songs, such as "Somebody," which was inspired by her encounter with the plight of the homeless in Los Angeles, to the "funk-laced" "Gone Crazy," about life on the road, Braaten writes songs as intensely personal reflections, which critics say touch emotional chords in others. Her premiere album is "Frag-
